

and for the consolidation and the development of the forces which guarantee this transformation must be realized in the period of the preparation of the bourgeois-democratic revolution itself (which does not lose its bourgeois democratic character because of that). The most important element is precisely the independence of the Communist Party from all bourgeois and petty bourgeois influence. And it is particularly this that does not appear in our formulation given in the circular for the XV Anniversary, bringing about in this manner the tolerance of the petty bourgeois influence in our Parties in the period of the bourgeois democratic revolution.

ДОКУМЕНТЫ СОВЕТСКОЙ ЭПОХИ

We urge that the CCs take into account the observations made in these supplementary directives in relation with the paragraph cited of the circular on the preparations of the XV Anniversary, and carry thru in the daily struggles led by the CPs, the fight for the organizational, ideological and political independence of the party of the proletariat and against all petty bourgeois influence within it.

With Communist Greetings
